UNVEILING OF THE CONFEDERATE MONUMENT AT EMPORIA THURSDAY

SERBIAN VILLAGE SCENE OF LOVE DRAMA

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
Vienna, November 5.—The Serbian village of Dravovitz has been the scene of a love drama in real life, which would serve as a plot of a tragedy. Milena Spasich, the prettiest girl in the village, was loved by Marko Radovitch and Lazar Gmitch, and the rivals agreed to settle the matter by mortal combat. In terrible distress the girl implored them to wait and let her find a way to solve the difficulty. Her way was to remove herself from her lovers and the world, for the next day her body was washed up on the banks of the River Sava.

In Virginia

The most beautiful song ever written and dear to the hearts of all Virginians, set to music by W. J. Burleigh, a gifted young Southerner, on sale at Walter D. Morse & Co.'s Monday, November 7. Listen to the words of the first verse:

The roses nowhere bloom so white,
As in Virginia;
The sunshine nowhere shines so bright,
As in Virginia;
The birds sing nowhere quite so sweet,
And nowhere hearts so lightly beat.
For heaven and earth both seem to meet
Down in Virginia.

The days are never quite so long,
Nor quite so filled with happy song,
And when my time has come to die,
Oh! take me back and let me lie
Close where the James goes rolling by,
Down in Virginia.

MARRIES SISTER OF DIVORCED WIFE

Seymour E. Locke's Grown Son, Columbia Graduate, Best Man at Wedding.

THE FIRST WIFE WILLING

Bridal Couple Now Spending Their Honeymoon on a Virginia Farm.

New York, November 5.—On a little farm at Coleman Falls, not far from Lynchburg, Va., Seymour E. Locke, secretary of the Maximus Metals Corporation of this city and Virginia, is spending his honeymoon. His bride is a sister of his former wife, who divorced him several months ago in order that he might marry her sister, who, as a writer under her maiden name of Margaret P. Greenleaf, has contributed to magazines for several years.

Kate and Margaret Greenleaf were daughters of Alvin Choate Greenleaf and his wife, Kate Pinkert, of Lexington, Ky. Locke married Kate Greenleaf there. A son, Preston Locke, was born to them and Mrs. Locke's sister, Margaret, came to live with the family.

After awhile the Lockes came to New York. Margaret Greenleaf came with them. Preston, who had studied in the public schools, was sent to Columbia University, and was graduated from the School of Mines not long ago. He is now a young mining engineer in the employ of one of the large corporations.

Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Locke separated and Mrs. Locke went to Paris to reside. Margaret, her sister, was writing for the magazines. Her favorite theme was interior decoration. She soon became an authority on the subject. Members of New York's wealthy set began to commission her to arrange the decorations of their homes.

During this time she saw much of her brother-in-law. He had become secretary and a director in the Maximus Metals Corporation, of which J. Heath Lewis is the president. Offices had been opened at 27 William Street, and the financial affairs of Mr. Locke were apparently flourishing. Now and then Locke and his first wife, Kate, corresponded.

One day in 1909 she came back from Paris and went to Los Angeles, Cal., where she began proceedings for a divorce. The cause alleged was desertion. On February 25, 1909, the case was heard before Judge W. P. James, of the Superior Court in Los Angeles, and on April 13 of the present year Mrs. Locke obtained an absolute divorce. She was granted by the court a small portion of her husband's property in the city of Pasadena, Cal. It was known as "Lot No. 15 of Locke Haven." But the court also decreed "That all the other property described in the complaint, and all other property belonging to the defendant be vested in him, free and clear of all claim on the part of the plaintiff."

After the divorce had been granted Mrs. Locke came back to New York to live. She took a small apartment in the upper part of Manhattan.

Gave His Willingly to Sister. Soon her friends and those of Mr. Locke learned that he was about to marry his sister-in-law, Margaret. And when one of Mrs. Locke's friends talked to her about it she replied:

"He should have married Margaret in the first place. I am quite willing that he should marry her now." Margaret Greenleaf was then living at the Chatsworth Apartments, at Seventy-second Street and Riverside Drive.

On September 13 last Mr. Locke and Margaret Greenleaf visited the City Hall and obtained a license to marry. Mr. Locke gave his age as fifty-two years. Miss Greenleaf said she was thirty-eight.

That evening, after obtaining the license, Mr. Locke and Margaret Greenleaf communicated with their friends, inviting them to attend the wedding next day in Miss Greenleaf's apartments, at the Chatsworth.

The first Mrs. Locke was invited to the wedding. Preston, her son, was asked to attend. His mother insisted that he stand with his father as best man. Young Mr. Locke yielded to his mother's wishes.

A few close friends of the bridal couple attended the wedding. Rev. James A. McCague, of 379 Convent Avenue, was the officiating clergyman, and the two witnesses who affixed their names to the document which was returned to the Marriage License Bureau were George L. McElroy and Edwin H. Nall. Soon after the marriage Mr. Locke and his new wife left for the farm at Coleman Falls. They will remain there for several months.

DEFEAT OF TAYLOR SEEMS CERTAIN

Indications Point to Election of Hooper as Governor of Tennessee.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Bristol, Va., November 5.—Monday will close one of the most interesting campaigns in the history of Tennessee. Senator Bob Taylor, who was given the nomination by the Democratic "Regulars" of the State after Patterson had withdrawn, has made a spectacular special train tour of the State, speaking to thousands from the rear platform. He has posed, not as a representative of either faction, but as a harmony man, but the fact that the "Regulars" and not the "Independents" called the convention which nominated him, has caused him to be classed as a substitute for Governor Patterson, who withdrew because he realized that his record had made it impossible for him to win under existing conditions in the State.

Before Patterson withdrew the Independent wing of the Democratic party in most of the counties had endorsed the nomination of Ben Hooper, the Republican nominee.

Despite the strenuous efforts of Senator Taylor and his personal popularity, the masses of the Independent Democrats appear to be standing firm to the Hooper ticket, and it now looks, viewing the situation candidly and without prejudice, that Senator Taylor will be defeated for the governorship, not because he is not sufficiently popular personally, but because the masses of the Independent Democrats felt that they were morally bound to stand for the fusion ticket. Enthusiastic Independent Democrats say Bob Taylor will be defeated by from 10,000 to 20,000, but an impartial estimate, based upon existing conditions, would make Hooper the favorite by 20,000 perhaps. These are, however, some elements which may change the figures, but it looks as though Senator Taylor were destined to defeat.

CONFIDENT OF ELECTION.
Holland Expects His Plurality to Be More Than 2,000.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Suffolk, Va., November 5.—Senator Edward Everett Holland, Democratic congressional nominee from the Second District, to-day put the finishing touches on his campaign by an automobile dash through Princess Anne county. Colonel Holland returned to his home in Suffolk tonight, to await the result of Tuesday's ballot battle. He expects to win by more than 2,000 plurality over Rumble, Goode and Gas-kins.

Colonel Holland's ten days' campaign to secure the nomination will cost him about $2,200. He has not yet reported the expenses to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, for the reason that he has been unable to get a statement as to primary costs in Norfolk county.

Holland said to-night that his personal expenses are about $1,000, and that he has paid $13.25 for running the primary in every county and city except Norfolk county. This is in addition to the $400 paid by four candidates, as entrance fees. Colonel Holland predicts that Tuesday's vote will be somewhat smaller than that of the Democratic primary, when about 8,000 were cast. He concedes Rumble 2,500 to 3,000 votes. Holland said to-night he should vote against all the constitutional amendments but one, which he declined to designate. Interviews with twenty other leading citizens of this section to-day showed seventeen against all four amendments, two in favor of all, and one officeholder indifferent.

PRODIGAL SON HAS ARRIVED IN LONDON

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.]
London, November 5.—The prodigal son of Sir Julius Wernher has arrived in London. He has been making things hum on the continent. A few days ago Sir Julius, who is the head of the great South African diamond firm, advertised in the London newspapers that he would no longer be responsible for his son's debts. But judging by his recent escapades in Berlin, Paris and elsewhere, he shows no sign of reform.

For two or three years young Dierck Wernher made himself so obnoxious that his society was shunned by all but those who wanted to get something out of him. Among the latter was a well-known peer's heir, who let the youth in for such a large amount of money that Sir Julius hurriedly sent his son out of the country, accompanied by a strong-minded companion named Lyons. But even Mr. Lyons, who has now returned with the boy, seems to have been unable to control him.

Lady Wernher, who is a handsome and ambitious woman, with a magnificent home, Bath House, in Piccadilly, and who has several friends in the royal family, is in despair, as she had mapped out a brilliant social and political career for her son.

Such an arrangement, he declared, would bind them all to submit to the Wright license at all future meets. This promptly caused all the aviators to announce that they would disapprove the Wright plan.

Graham-White then announced that he would disapprove the Wright plan. He would disapprove the Wright plan. He would disapprove the Wright plan.
